

HIGH PRICES continue to be the burthen of the complaint of the Northern newspapers.—It is demonstrated, that there is nothing in the cost of production or of transportation, to warrant for instance the present rates of Coal, potatoes, onions, fruits, &c. The Washington Chronicle states that the traders at the North generally are practising at the dodge of the butter operations last season. The operators suffer thousands of dollars worth of fruit to rot, so as to keep up prices. A "financial crash" could alone bring these people to terms, if another plan is not adopted. The Chronicle says the cupidity of those now engaged in fleecing buyers can be checked. If people would combine, they could stop it. A few days abstinence from a staple article would knock the bottom out of the schemes of speculators.

Attention has been called to the measures for fruits and vegetables used in the market, some of which, it is alleged, are very "short." One favorable symptom in the market now is, that every seller in the market does not ask the same price for his produce. Corn is offered from 25 to 40 cts.; The "gougers" all try to keep up the latter price. Peaches are from 20 to 40 cts. the half peck. It is thought by some, that the "combination" totters. May it fall.
